New Vote on DNA Research by Council Likely As Selden Reports He Will Now Support Plan

If the two Princetons had been consolidated as one; if the question had been simply whether or not the University should be allowed to pursue its plans for DNA research at the P-1, P-2, and P-3 levels; and if the members of Council and Committee had voted as they expressed their desires at last week's joint meeting, then the University today might have had a green light for research at all levels. The vote would not have been close – probably 8-3.

But instead, the two Princetons voted separately and the Borough, where the issue was more closely divided, moved to take steps to enact an ordinance that would ban any research at the higher risk level for a year, while the question was being studied further by yet another DNA committee.

How could the legislators end up acting so contrary to their own desires? And does the University have any hope that the Borough's decision might be modified to allow the DNA research at the P-3 level?

The response to the second question seems to be yes, for reasons that also help answer the first.

"I am going to encourage a review of our action with the hope that it can be rescinded," Borough Councilman William K. Selden said late last week. Mr. Selden, who supports stongly the University's plans to conduct the DNA research, abstained at a critical moment in last week's meeting, when the Borough was voting on a resolution supporting the recommendations of the citizens' DNA committee and, in effect, the University's plans for research at all three levels.

Tie Vote Forecast. The motion to accept the committee's recommendations was made by Leona Medvin. Nelson van den Blink, who had campaigned against any DNA research at the University, voted against it, as did her fellow Democrats, Martin P. Lombardo and Gus Escher.

Then Richard Woodbridge and Mrs. Medvin cast votes in favor. Mr. Selden, who had predicted earlier in the day that the Council could be split 3-3 and that Mayor Robert Cawley then would cast the deciding vote – almost certainly in favor of the University. When he was asked to vote, he was in perfect position to make that scenario a reality.

Councilman William Selden
Abstention Regretted

But Mr. Selden was confused at that moment, as others on the governing bodies and in the audience were at times during meeting. He wanted to know if the Council's endorsement of the committee recommendations made them binding in all detail. While he was generally in favor of them, he had reservations about some of the particulars.

He queried the mayor, but still was uncertain on that point. So he abstained. Council thus failed to support the recommendations by a 3-2 vote.

Out of Position. "I pulled a boo-boo on the procedural side," Mr. Selden said later. "I'm still kicking myself for not calling a recess so that I could have clarified the matter."

Mr. Selden's confusion was compounded by another factor: "I was sitting off to the far side of the room, because I wanted to make sure that members of Township Committee were not delegated to an inferior geographical position. At one joint meeting we had, they actually were made to sit in the audience. I didn't want that to happen again," he said.

"Sitting to the side as I was, I actually didn't hear exactly how Leona and Dick stood. I didn't realize that we came that close until I read the report of the meeting in TOWN TOPICS," Mr. Selden said.

Some people in the audience thought that Mr. Selden's abstention was inconsequential anyway. The mayor, these people thought, would have voted against the committee's recommendations because he had engineered the resulting compromise action from the very beginning.

What Next? Not so, said Mr. Cawley. "I was all set to vote in favor of the recommendations. I don't see any need for local regulation of the University's DNA research. I'm not even sure Federal regulation is necessary."

Yet local regulation is exactly the course the Borough is following, at least based on the action at last week's meeting. What happens next?

"We're going to have to do some sort of ordinancing," says Mr. Cawley. "Although, since it is somewhat technical, I don't think we will dash it right off." He added that, "if we follow the direction we agreed on, there's no tremendous hurry to get the legislation on the books. The University won't do any P-3 rescarch anyway."

Mr. Selden hopes that the Council might have an opportunity to reconsider. "I in no way want to make those who opposed those recommendations feel circumvented," he said, "but before our ordinance is introduced there might be some possibility to make some major changes."

Council Meets Tuesday. The next regular Borough Council meeting is scheduled for next Tuesday. Mr. Selden was asked if an attempt might be made then to change the Borough's position. "Possibly, or possibly at this Thursday's agenda meeting." That meeting, scheduled at 8 in Borough Hall, now has listed a discussion of the rent levelling ordinance.

The changes Mr. Selden would like are obvious. Supporting the committee's recommendations not only would satisfy the University's desires, but it would also realize Mr. Selden's hope that the Borough and Township could act together on the DNA issue.

Township's feeling toward the appointment of another committee to study further the DNA question may have been summarized by David W. Blair. "For a citizens' group to decide what the University should do on the issue of P-3 labs is a nice ego trip, but to me it's just another committee spinning its wheels."

Hugo Hoogenboom voiced sympathy for the old DNA committee. "We owe them a decision – not to ask them to reconvene. I don't think many members of that committee would want to serve again now."

LIQUOR HEARING SET

Wednesday, July 13. A public hearing on an amendment to the Township liquor law will be held at the Committee meeting Wednesday July 13, at 8 in Township Hall.

The amendment would provide for one-day permits to allow sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages on Sundays at activities sponsored by civic, religious, and non-profit organizations. Such permits are now available from the Township on days other than Sunday.

Wine Talk

RED & WHITE WINES OF SPAIN

The average American usually associates Spain with Sherry and has no knowledge of the exceptional values represented by the wines of Spain, both red and white. The two leading table wines are without any question of doubt the wines of Rioja (Ree-oh-hah) and Valdepenas (Val-day-pain-yass). The best of these are the reds from the Rioja district, in the high valley of the Ebro, west of Logrono (Low-groan-yo), and not far from the French border. Next in quality come the wines (Red and White) of Valdepenas, south of Madrid. These wines are light bodies, pleasant tasting and have an alcoholic strength of 13%. They are drunk as "Vino Corriente" (Vee-no Core-ree-en-tay) which is the equivalent of French "Vin Ordinaire".

These are excellent values and should be tried by anyone who is looking for a sound wine (Red or White) at a reasonable price.

agenda are a request from the Chamber of Commerce to hold a circus at the Shopping Center September 15; and public hearings for ordinances to reconstruct Balcort Drive and resurface part of Province Line Road.

Committee expects to introduce ordinances for code amendments concerning flood hazard areas and combinations of lots.

BOARD SEEKS HELP

For Renovations Committee. The committee of from 12 to 15 citizens that the School Board hoped would be appointed a week ago to begin study of what Princeton should do about renovating the high school remains unorganized.

This week the board announced that it is seeking volunteers for the committee. Princeton residents interested in serving should contact the board Monday at the latest by writing to Box 711 or calling 924-8724.

Acknowledging that recruiting people for summertime committee work is not an easy task, board president Dietrich Meyerhofer said he was hoping the request for volunteers would produce people who not only will be around during the summer but who also will be willing to work and interested in the renovation question. The board hopes to be able to review an adequate list of names at its Tuesday meeting, scheduled for 8 in the Valley Road School.

One "volunteer" already asked to serve is Charles Cornforth, an expert on school financial matters, who was designated to represent the Borough by Mayor Robert Cawley.

The advisory committee will be asked to visit and inspect the high school building, discuss the issue with teachers and staff, meet with architects from the J. Robert Hillier firm, and consider the costs of renovation. Renovation, which has been previously defeated by the voters in a referendum, could cost anywhere from $1 million to $8 million.

Report In September. The committee, once it is formed, will be asked to submit a report to the school board by the time of its September meeting.

At this Monday's meeting the school board also will hear recommendations from its finance committee and negotiations committees on increases that should be considered in formulating the budget for the 1978-'79 school year.

"We also are going to ask the budget process committee to make recommendations on how we can further improve the process in the coming year," said Dr. Meyerhofer "We need to find someway to get more information out without so much confusion. That is difficult because so many things change at the last minute."

Dr. Meyerhofer also commented on the board's out-of-court settlement of its litigation with Constance Vieland, former director of staff services who was, in effect, demoted to school psychologist two years ago. "Nobody is totally happy but it was in the best interests of both parties to settle out of court. It was costly in terms of time and money."

Other Cases Pending. Dr. Vieland accepted a payment of $17,750 from the board. She in turn agreed to drop her legal actions and claims against the board.

Dr. Meyerhofer said he saw no immediate hope of reaching similar settlements with either Virginia Euell, former Middle School principla, or Elaine Solomon, former director of the Wednesday program.

Another suit involving the board was brought by the League of Women Voters of the Princeton Community and two Princeton residents, Lucy MacKenzie and Nancy Bruce. They charge that the board acted illegally when it went into closed session on March 29 to discuss elections of officers and that it was also illegal to vote for those officers by secret ballot.

"Neither party in that case wants to settle out of court," said the board president, "because it's a matter of judicial interpretation that we are both interested in knowing."

LITTLE RAIN LIKELY

In This Part of State. Home gardeners and farmers in New Jersey can expect to spend a good part of July watering their crops, especially in central and southern counties, according to James Carr, National Weather Service advisory agricultural meteorologist at Rutgers University's Cook College.

"Rainfall is expected to average near the normal of an inch each week in northern counties and somewhat less than normal in central counties," he said.

"Although thundershowers may bring temporary relief from time to time," he added, "rainfall is expected to be light in South Jersey." He feels soil moisture will remain adequate for crop growth and development for most of the time in North Jersey but only 60 percent of the time in Central Jersey and just 30 percent of the time in southern portions of the state.

Rainfall and spells of high humidity will cause problems in northern counties and, to a lesser extent, in central counties in the form of mildew, gray mold and leaf spot on vegetation, he said.

Temperatures for the month will probably average near the normal of 74 degrees. It will be fairly warm the first third of July, followed by a cooling trend until late in the month.

University to Move Four William St. Houses; Plans Call for Two Others to Be Demolished

Princeton University went before the Regional Planning Board Tuesday night for a public hearing on the application for conditional use authorization, bulk variances, and site plan approval necessary for the University's proposed commercial and residential development on and behind Nassau Street, between Washington Road and the former elementary school at 185 Nassau.

The University's plans already have been cleared through the Zoning Board, and Borough Council, which adopted an ordinance allowing a mixture of commercial and residential uses in those buildings, and through the Planning Board's environmental design review committee. The expectation was that the full Planning Board would give the University the go-ahead this week.

Part of the University's plan calls for the relocation of four houses on William Street to the area behind Nassau Street, thereby forming the area that would be known as Nassau Court. Those houses, which sit on the site of the new life sciences building now under construction, will probably be moved from their foundations sometime this month.

Since the University has had to wait for approval from the Planning Board before it could begin construction of new foundations and utility connections for those houses, it will have a short-term storage problem with the William Street houses.

The solution will be to park them temporarily on skids in the parking lot located off William Street, behind 185 Nassau Street. Two other William Street houses, both made of masonry and considered difficult to move, will be left to face the wrecking ball.

'Unique Opportunity.' "We feel that this project gives us a unique opportunity to preserve and reinforce that area," said Eugene McPartland, general manager of the University plant, summarizing the arguments presented to the planners. "We want to generate new commercial, retail, and professional office space that will give the downtown area a shot in the arm. We also want to create additional housing."

Once it has the final Planning Board approval in hand, the University will proceed with the development of final plans and then open the project for bids, which could happen as soon as early fall, if all goes well. The University expects that cost for the conversion and relocation will amount to several hundred thousand dollars.

Mr. McPartland outlined plans for conversion and renovations to the existing Nassau Street properties that would result in about a dozen apartment units available to the general public at prevailing rental rates.

The Mershon House at 159 Nassau Street, just to the east of Aaron Burr Hall, formerly known as Green Hall Annex, is now a single family dwelling and would remain one after extensive rehabilitation. It would be used as faculty or staff housing by the University.

More Apartments. The building at 161-163 Nassau now has offices on the first floor. "We would like commercial on the first floor," Mr. McPartland said, "with commercial and residential on the second floor, which now is vacant."

At 165-167 Nassau the University envisions eventual commercial-office use. At 169-171 and 173-175 Nassau Street, which now house commercial space and the diner on the first floors, the University's plan calls for continuation of those uses, with the creation of additional apartments on the second and third floors.

Variances are needed primarily because the distance between these structures are less than the present code allows. "In our opinion these conditions are prevalent in many places in the Borough," said Mr. McPartland. "These conditions of course pre-existed the code."

The four houses on William Street, which comprise five dwelling units, also will be sited closer to each other than the present code allows. But the University requested a variance in part because they will be no closer together than they already were on William Street.

'Minor Things.' Mr. McPartland said that the relocated houses also would not conform to "the strict interpretation that each structure have direct vehicular access to a public street." But, he added, parking places in the lot behind 185 Nassau Street closest to Nassau Court would be set aside for tenants of those buildings.

"You'd be able to park close to them even though you wouldn't actually be able to drive up to your front porch."

The Planning Board's environmental design review committee had recommended approval of the University's plans subject to various changes, including the addition of another fire hydrant, more lighting, and screening of trash containers. "All minor things," said Mr. McPartland, "and things we are very happy to do."

The Planning Board also was scheduled to hold public hearings on the application of John G. Delmouzos to convert 22 Madison Street to a four-family dwelling; and of the Stuart School for conditional use authorization for community use of its facilities during the summer months.

Referred to the Board were the Borough's ordinances for authorization to employ professional consultants to study parking in the central business district and authorization to construct a sidewalk along part of Hibben Road.

OUTLOOK BRIGHTENS

For Borough Projects. Mayor Robert Cawley, brightly tanned after a Fourth of July weekend hiking and camping in New Hampshire, returned to Borough Hall Tesday with a bright outlook on a number of long standing Borough improvement projects.

The brightest news was that court proceedings which had been delaying the sale of the Quarry land to the Borough are near settlement--sooner than expected. That land, 4.5 acres at the eastern end of Spruce Street which was appraised recently at $409,000, eventually will be the site of Quarry Park. "We should be settling on it before the end of the month," said the mayor. "It's just a matter of our doing the title search and other legal and financial preparations for it."

The Borough's acquisition of the land will mark the conclusion of a long fight between neighborhood residents and a West Orange developer who held an option to buy the land and had the hope of constructing 32 townhouses on the site. The land is now owned by Charles LaPlaca of 302 Nassau Street.

"George Alexa should also be happy," said Mr. Cawley, referring to the Borough engineer. "He wanted to take top soil from the life sciences building project at the University and use it to cover the rubble and debris that now cover part of the quarry." With the deal proceeding at such a fast pace, he now apparently will have a chance to do that.

Encouraging Words. Mayor Cawley was scheduled to speak before the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday at the Nassau Inn, where he planned to offer encouraging words about the Borough's central business district.

"A number of factors necessary to really solve the downtown problems finally seem settled," said the mayor.

"In the first place the economy is good and that's a crucial thing. We've even seen some interest expressed by the University in taking action on its Palmer Square plans. We have the Princeton Community Housing desiring to do some building and that has very strong Council support.

"And we still have some hope that the Benson Building may go up even larger than before. That hinges on what we do with parking but we have a study underway on that."

Library Expansion? "Not to forget esthetic considerations, we are still hoping to get a mural up on the eastern portion of the Chambers Street walkway. And somewhere in the wings we have plans for the expansion of the Public Library. Things are looking good at the moment," continued Mr. Cawley.

Problems, of course, still remain and the Mayor and Council are planning to convene Thursday at 8 in an agenda meeting and next Tuesday at 8 in regular session to deal with them. Council also will meet jointly with Township Committee Monday at 8 in Township Hall to discuss joint problems and the continuing question of consolidation.

The agenda meeting will consider the rent-leveling ordinance and the report on that subject filed by the ordinance administrator, Joyce Paul, and a volunteer consultant, Robert Levine. Council is debating whether it should continue the ordinance for another year.

At Tuesday night's meeting Council will hear an ordinance which would create no-passing zones on Hamilton Avenue, Wiggins Street, Paul Robeson Place, and Hodge Road. That would allow a continuous center line to be drawn from Elm Road to Snowden Lane. The death of a pedestrian last winter on Hodge Road spurred the discussion for increased traffic regulations on those streets.

A hearing also will be held Tuesday on an ordinance providing for the installation of eight parking meters in the Maclean Street parking yard, which now is available only to cars with Borough parking permits.

So Say We All

The farmer eyes his corn,
Scans the skies in vain,
Shakes his head, forlorn:
'We sure could use some rain!'

It's dry again, even though June produced a nearly normal rainfall. Trouble was, it came in large doses on a very few days, and that meant long periods without moisture.

Nothing more than the chance of showers is in sight through the weekend, the Man reports. The humidity that began moving upward early in the week will be lower Wednesday and Thursday, and then creep upward again. So showers are a Friday or Saturday possibility.

Real rain? Not for a while, he says.

THEFT REPORT

Two Ladders Taken. Two aluminum ladders--one 44-ft. valued at $220 and another 28-ft. valued at $130--were reported stolen last week by Westminster Choir College. Police said that the ladders had been chained to a building on campus but the chain had been cut.

Three yellow beach umbrellas valued at $60 each were stolen during the night from the pool area at the Nassau Inn and two aluminum lawn chairs were taken from two homes in the Borough. One valued at $23 was stolen from the front yard of a Maple Street home; the second from the front yard of a Spruce Street residence.

A Princeton University employee listed the theft of a gold pocket watch from a glass case on a table in Room 209 of the Woodrow Wilson Building. Valued at $500, the watch was taken between 2 p.m. last Wednesday and 3:30 the following afternoon.

Carlos Pagan, 36 Witherspoon Street, lost a BOAC airline bag that was taken last week from the pool area at Community Park.

Police later in the day arrested a 13-year old Trenton youth who, they said, had the bag in his possession. He was turned over to juvenile authorities.

A CB radio valued at $38 was stolen from a van while it was parked Thursday evening on Palmer Square. Police identified the owner as a Catawissa, Pa. resident. The van had been broken into.

A motorcycle valued at $1300 was found last week in woods off Province Line Road by Gregg Davidson of 18 Turner Court.

A police investigation revealed that the cycle had been stolen two days earlier from the Lawrence Shopping Center on Route 1. The owner was identified as Phillis M. Green of Bordentwon.

RT. 206 — ROCKY HILL
AT GRAND UNION SHOPPING CENTER 924-2902

Four young men who went through the Princeton public school system together and were all 1973 graduates of Princeton High School have completed their college education together at Denison University in Granville, Ohio.

From left to right, they are James Bolster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bolster of 124 Parkside Drive; J. Wray Blattner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Blattner of 276 Shady Brook Lane; Michael J. Coda, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Coda of 15 Marion Road West; and Frederick G. Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilman Spencer, formerly of 375 Snowden Lane.

Mr. Bolster was the first 12-letterman to graduate from Denison. He earned varsity letters in soccer, swimming and lacrosse. He made All-American in swimming and has signed a contract to play pro soccer with the Centennials. He took his bachelor of arts degree in history.

Mr. Blattner graduated with honors with a B.A. in political science and economics and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He was president of his fraternity, earned a varsity letter in baseball and will attend Georgetown University Law School in the fall.

Mr. Coda was a seven-letter man, earning varsity insignia in track and cross country, and was captain of the cross country team. An associate editor of the college newspaper, he spent his junior year at the University of Madrid and is interested in a foreign service career.

Mr. Spencer received his B.A. in philosophy and earned varsity letters in basketball and golf.

the Delaware and Raritan Canal and Stoney Brook, has been given an additional four acres of land by the University. That land is located on the other side of Alexander Road and across from the old turning basin.

The Township Environmental Commission has recommended that consideration be given to development of a park on the 10-acre site. The Township already has paid $2,000 for a schematic study, and anticipates that the total development might cost about $70,000.

The development might be eligible for state green acres funds, but the Borough involvement in such a plan, if any, would have to be determined before any applications are filed.

JOINT MEETING SET

Monday at 8. Township Committee and Borough Council will hold another of their joint meetings Monday at 8 in Township Hall. The proposed merger of the Township and Borough Environmental Commissions, discussion of a report on future needs for fire protection in the two municipalities, and an invitation by the Township to the Borough to join in the development of Basin Park at the foot of Alexander Road are among the items on the agenda.

Merger of the two Environmental Commissions has been subject of much discussion and debate in recent months. The issue rose to a boil in May when H. Philip Minis, chairman of the Township's commission, resigned. He charged that the Township had dragged its feet when it should have been moving ahead with the merger.

Township Committee replied that it still had details to work out. The Borough also announced that it would need more time--possibly until the new year--to study its entire committee structure. Monday's meeting is likely to feature more talk and no action, with or without the presence of Mr. Minis. (Township Committee refused to accept his resignation and had hoped to convince him to change his mind.)

A joint committee comprised of volunteer fire fighters and several insurance men was appointed several months ago to study the joint needs of the Township and Borough in terms of fire protection. Committee and Council will take their first look at that report during Monday's meeting.

The Basin Park project is one that the Borough was involved in at one time. It later decided to withdraw and paid the Township a lump sum to cover administrative costs.

Order of Elks Is Benevolent, Protective — and Largely Unknown

THE "AFTER" SHOT: There is no "Before" picture available, but this is the result of the transformation of an old barn in Blawenburg that used to house a farm-equipment business into a handsome lodge by the Princeton Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks 2129.

BPOE

It stands for Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

But for Douglas Watson Sr., Exalted Ruler of Princeton BPOE 2129 in Blawenburg, that final "E" could just as well stand for 'Eclipsed'. "I think we do a great deal for the community but we haven't received that much publicity," said Mr. Watson. The Elks, he feels, suffer from an identity problem.

How Flag Day Began. Recently Mr. Watson, who is Juvenile Officer for the Borough police, got the Princeton mayors to proclaim the week of May 22 as Elks' National Youth Week. Like other service organizations, it sponsors youths to the annual Boys State project. But it wasn't reported in the papers.

"We support Americanism -- everything to do with the flag," Mr. Watson declared. It was the Elks fraternity, he continued, that in 1949 had President Truman sign the law, officially making June 14 national Flag Day.

The Elks also support veterans, crippled children, youth activities, give scholarships ... "our main object is to raise money to support these programs," commented Mr. Watson.

The self-effacing Mr. Watson isn't looking for acclaim; just recognition of the Elks and what they do.

The Elks lodge here has come a long way since it was chartered in May, 1959. For many years it was headquartered in the old Reid farmhouse on Route 206. But when that was torn down some five years ago to make way for construction of the Princeton Shopping Center North, the Elks purchased the large, three-story farm building in Blawenburg which had housed Percy Van Zandt Co., a farm equipment and tire business firm that had closed its doors.

Extensive Remodelling. The barn has been transformed by the Elks. Doing most of the work themselves, members have encased the building in cedar siding. A front wall was extended 10 feet; a new entrance added.

Inside, the Elks have installed a modern kitchen and lounge and created a large ballroom. There are drapes and a parquet floor. Plans are in the making to refurbish the second and third floors. The property is used as often as possible.

To raise money, the Elks rent their facilities to weddings, parties and dances. They have even housed a flea market. "We're very fortunate," agreed Mr. Watson, "to have people who want to use the building." The Elks also have their own fund-raising dinners and social affairs.

In addition, said Mr. Watson, the Elks auxiliary raises money by sponsoring its own events such as penny sales and pancake breakfasts.

New Members Sought. Since the Elks acquired the Blawenburg property, Mr. Watson estimates membership has almost doubled. It is now approximately 325 – most from the surrounding areas of Princeton, Rocky Hill, Skillman, Montgomery Township and Hopewell. Mr. Watson's goal, before his year as Exalted Ruler expires, is to add 50 new members.

THE MAN IN CHARGE: Douglas Watson is Exalted Ruler of the Princeton Elks, a service fraternity whose identity he wishes was a little more exalted in the public eye.

A national fraternity, the Elks here meet twice a month. It is informal; there are no uniforms. Although applicants are investigated, the only requirement for those who want to join is to be a good American citizen over 21.

As an organization whose primary goal is service, one of Elks' biggest projects, said Watson, is the Crippled Children's Fund. Elk funds pay for treatment and equipment such as wheel chairs and corrective shoes.

The Elks also support a summer camp for crippled children in northern New Jersey where the Princeton Chapter has sent three this summer. One was a little girl, whose placement there enabled her parents to have a vacation for the first time in nine years.

Veterans receive support and attention from the Elks. "We take gifts to veterans' hospitals or bring them out to the lodge for social affairs and entertain them with dinner and movies. As long as there is a veterans' hospital, the Elks will never forget," said Mr. Watson.

A Scholarship Fund. The Elks' National Foundation for Scholarship provides financial assistance to outstanding high school students across the country. Each lodge and each individual member is required to pay dues to the National Foundation to support the program.

Youth activities which receive Elk support include the Boy Scouts, baseball, soccer and basketball teams and Boys State. The Hoop Shoot is a national competition in which finalists are awarded college scholarships.

The rewards of engaging in service to others had long been a part of Mr. Watson's career.

When friends, knowing of his interest in youth, approached him four years ago with the idea of joining the Elks, he was already a member of the Princeton First Aid Squad, the Lions and the Volunteer Fire Department. "I was so busy that I had to drop out of the Aid Squad and Lions," he recalls.

He has been a policeman for 21 years and juvenile officer for the past five. One thing Mr. Watson didn't give up, however, was his long association with the fire department; he has been a member of Hook and Ladder for 27 years.

It was in keeping with his way of life that after Doug Watson was approached by the Elks, and "after I found out what they did," he joined.

POCKETBOOK STOLEN

From Randall Road Home. A pocketbook containing $10 was stolen between 4:30 and 7 p.m. Thursday from the home of Mrs. Barbara K. Smith, 67 Randall Road. Police said there was no forced entry.

The discarded pocketbook was later found on Grover Avenue by Ron Delehanty of Hopewell.

Police also report that someone entered the refreshment stand at the Community Park pool complex and made off with food items valued at $36.40. Again, no forced entry.

TWO ARE INJURED

In Intersection Crash. A driver and a passenger were injured late Saturday night after two cars collided at the intersection of Birch Avenue and John Street.

Louis Lucullo Jr., 50, 69 Harris Road, one of the drivers sustained lacerations of the face. One of four passengers in the second car, Sandra Oliver, 27, was treated at Princeton Medical Center after she complained of facial pains.

The second driver, Aaron H. Good, 42, of Easton, Pa., was quoted by Ptl. John Hammond as saying he was not paying attention and had failed to observe the stop sign. He also struck a traffic sign at the intersecton when backing up after the accident.

CAR TIRES SLASHED

Fourth Incident Police Say. When a pharmacist at Foyer Pharmacy, 160 Witherspoon Street, called police Saturday to report that the left rear tire of his car had been slashed while it was parked in a garage at the rear of the pharmacy, police said it was the fourth such incident.

On successive days, the two rear tires of a company station wagon had been slashed while parked in the garage and on Thursday, police said that another car parked there had its rear tire slashed.

In another act of car vandalism, an employee of the Hudibras Restaurant told police that the rear window of his car had been broken between 1 and 2 Friday morning while it was parked on Tulane Street.

Borough police also report that a number of flowers were

Helistop Stopped

In the face of mounting opposition from his neighbors, J. Seward Johnson has withdrawn his request to install a helicopter landing pad in the middle of Jasna Polana, his multi-million dollar estate on the western side of Princeton Township.

The State Department of Transportation had scheduled a public hearing on the application last week in Township Hall. Ronson Aviation, a firm based at the Mercer County Airport which represented Mr. Johnson in the matter, withdrew its request and the hearing was cancelled. When asked if another application for a helistop would be filed at a later date, a spokesman for Ronson had no comment.

Neighbors of Mr. Johnson who is an heir to the Johnson & Johnson fortune, had argued that he could land his helicopter just as easily at Princeton Airport and commute by car to his house. The Township's zoning ordinances forbid aircraft landing facilities of any sort in that section.

ripped from a concrete planter in front of Borough Hall during the weekend. The vandalism was discovered at 6:30 Tuesday morning.

MAN IS ARRESTED

Charged with Possession. A 21-year old Princeton resident has been charged with three counts of possession of stolen property which, police said, he allegedly shoplifted from Princeton merchants.

Reginald McRae of Mulberry Row was arrested Thursday by Ptl. Victor Fasanella and Ptl. William Nathan as he was walking on Nassau Street. In his possession, police said, were a quart of wine, allegedly taken from Wine and Game Shop; a blouse and skirt, allegedly taken from Ladybug; and a pair of sneakers and six pairs of socks, allegedly taken from Robert's Shoes in the Princeton Shopping Center. He was released after being issued a complaint summons, pending his appearance in court August 17.

Arrested in Bike Theft. Three residents of Somerset were arrested this week by police in connection with the theft of a 10-speed bicycle from the Graduate College.

Charged with larceny are George B. Clark, 21; Joseph H. Carter, 19, and a 17-year old juvenile. They were later released after being issued a summons.

Sgt. Thomas Procaccino and Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt responded when University Security called at 1:30 Friday morning and reported it had three suspects in custody.

Edison, a College without Classes or Faculty, First of Its Kind to Gain Full Accreditation

Thomas A. Edison College – a nontraditional state college in Princeton named for the great American inventor who had only a few months of formal education -- has become the first college in the nation that does not offer instruction to be fully accredited by a regional accrediting body.

The Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the official association for the accreditation of educational institutions in five states and the District of Columbia, has awarded full accreditation status to the New Jersey college, it was announced this week by Dr. James Douglas Brown, Jr., president. The college is situated in Princeton University's Forrestal Center on U.S. Route 1.

The college was established as part of the New Jersey system of higher education in July, 1972, specifically to meet the needs of the adult learner. Edison's mission is to provide men and women who have not had the opportunity to complete their formal education but who have acquired equivalent knowledge through experience and independent study, the opportunity to receive college credits and degrees by demonstrating what they know.

"Accreditation by Middle States," says Dr. Brown, "constitutes recognition by the higher education community of Edison's innovative approach to education. Because of the nature of the College, our evaluation procedures must be more rigorous than those at colleges with instructional programs. Accreditation implies that while our methods are nontraditional, our students have met valid degree requirements on a par with traditional colleges."

From All 50 States. Since its founding five years ago, the College has awarded more than 1,000 degrees. Currently, nearly 6,000 students are enrolled in one of the five degree programs at the baccalaureate and associate degree levels. Edison students have come from all 50 states, four Canadian provinces, and 20 other foreign countries. Many of them are now in graduate schools around the country – including Princeton, Rutgers, Goddard College, Southern Illinois, and several of the state colleges in the New Jersey system.

Edison students meet degree requirements in four ways:

- Through a demanding individual assessment program in which specialists in given subject areas, hired as faculty consultants by the College, evaluate the student's proficiency in a subject of college caliber and scope through tests and on-site observation of performance.
- By passing college-level achievement tests such as those in the well-known CLEP program (College Level Examination Program) and other accredited colleges.

- By transferring credits from other accredited colleges.
- Through a group assessment process in which students enroll in in-service programs sponsored by outside organizations for their employees -- such as corporations, labor organizations, community agencies, and governmental departments – which have been evaluated by Edison and which use Edison-supplied testing materials.

"Far-Reaching Implications." Dr. Brown said that the accreditation of a college which grants degrees on the basis of "what students know rather than where they learned it" has far-reaching implications for the future of higher education in this country, particularly in a time of shrinking budgets and rising costs.

"What we have done at Edison," he says, "is to disentangle the evaluation of learning from the process of learning in the classroom. We have been delivering selective educational service to individuals who have acquired college-level learning in a variety of ways outside the classroom. Our students include symphonic musicians and ballerinas whose learning has come through professional performance; others are housewives or prison inmates or busy executives who have done an enormous amount of independent study. We grant credits and degrees for achieved learning, and our interest is not in bow that learning was achieved, but rather in its quality and relevance and how these can best be verified."

Or, as Raymond Male, former Commissioner of Labor and Industry for the State of New Jersey and a vice-president of the college puts it: "If they know the material, we don't care if they learned it in the cellar, in the attic, in prison, on the job, dancing in the ballet, or traveling around Europe."

Although Edison students range in age and experience from a 21-year-old musician to an 81-year-old retired president of an accounting company, most Edison College students are mid-career adults. Most have some previous college. Surveys by the college indicate that about 50 per cent of its students are looking for career advancement, about 27 per cent plan to enter different careers, and the remainder simply want the satisfaction of having their lifetime learning evaluated in terms of college credit.

Second-Class Citizens. According to Dr. Brown, the adult learner is often treated as a second-class citizen in America. "Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries have done a better job of developing flexible systems for the adult learner," he says. "In America, the mature adult is still expected in most cases to adapt to procedures tailored for the recent high school graduate.

"Edison College," says Dr. Brown, "is part of a national movement to develop more flexible ways to serve the adult student. The accreditation of the College is one major step forward in gaining the acceptance of the educational community, as well as the general public, of the alternative approaches to higher education."

HUMAN RIGHTS

Two Different Views. Not long ago, I went to a debate in Washington at Georgetown University, between an American team headed by Father Theodore M. Hesburgh, of Notre Dame University, and a Soviet team headed by Professor Samuil Zivs of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences at the Institute of State and Law. (Perhaps some of you saw it on NBC TV). The subject was "Human Rights," and right from the start the gulf between the two was clear.

On the U.S. side, the emphasis was on the individual -- on the Soviet side, the "collective." The one subject that did not, I think, get adequate emphasis from either side was respect for, and obedience to, the law. The debate turned into a rather unproductive and inconclusive wrangle.

The Americans were concerned about specific injustices suffered by individuals through Soviet government actions -- injustices relating to individual and religious freedom. The Soviets answered none of these, countering with attacks concerning the failure of the United States to publish modern Russian books and to stop cartoons unfavorable to the Soviets, as though our publishers and press were government organs like theirs, subject to government dictation.

But the law -- that tremendous forward step in civilization, a concept for which Western countries are indebted to Rome -- was scarcely mentioned in the hour and a half. And yet it seemed central to the deep differences between the two societies. The Constitution of the Soviet Union and our Constitution and Bill of Rights mention many of the same guarantees -- freedom of speech and assembly, for example. Yet ours takes for granted that the purpose of the whole exercise is the protection of the individual as against the State; in the Soviet Constitution every one of these guarantees is subjected to the protection of the State.

The Soviets don't want to discuss human rights as we understand them -- the civil rights of free expression and religion, the political right to choose between candidates of opposing parties in secret ballot elections, with free access to a free press and an independent judiciary. They prefer to speak of economic rights -- the right to work, the right to health care and education and housing. They speak of exploitation, as between employer and employee, and dodge the issue that a single source for the satisfaction of all these human needs leaves the individual with one landlord, one employer with whom no bargaining is possible, and with terrible penalties for those who object.

And yet, curiously, their Constitution speaks of a citizen's freedom as though the government thought it desirable. Their government is using psychiatric hospitals and drugs as punishment for dissenters, in order to bypass the courts, so there must obviously be some restraint in the legal process, however subservient to the government foreign observers may have found the courts to be.

There is something, in other words, however hidden under the constitutional statements which are not honored, and despite the cruel practices we know about, which refers to a common human understanding, of what people know to be good. We can see its traces in their documents.

They wouldn't be writing a third Constitution, as they are now, if the idea of a lawful and orderly society didn't have some value for their people. Most of all, we can find a common bond in the incredible courage of the dissidents, who dare to speak up for their own freedom and that of their fellow citizens.

I asked a Russian woman the other day at a hearing how she had found the courage to protest, as she did in Moscow, the invasion of Czechoslovakia, how she had dared to work to help the families of imprisoned dissidents – acts for which she had been exiled. Her answer was simple and direct: "To keep one's self-respect as a human being."

Brezhnev has proclaimed his country's right to continue the ideological struggle and President Carter has proclaimed our determined concern for human rights. In the long run, I am convinced the individual will prevail, under protection of the law.

MAN GETS SIX MONTHS

For Playground Assault. Stanley Klein, 36, 10 Harris Road, has been sentenced to six months in the Mercer County Workhouse for assaulting a young girl at the Chestnut Street Playground.

Sgt. Robert Anderson and Ptl. James Agins responded to an 11:19 call Thursday morning that a man was creating a disturbance at the playground and had allegedly thrown sand in the face of a girl.

At a hearing held the same afternoon, which ran from 2 to 9:30 p.m., Klein was sentenced by Judge Philip Carchman. He represented himself, police said.

SAVE AN ELM TREE

With An Injection. The Princeton Township Shade Tree Commission would like to be notified of residents of the Borough and Township who have elm trees on their property and who might be interested in protecting them with help from the Commission.

The Elm Research Institute in Harrisville, N.H., recommends the yearly injection of healthy elms with the chemical Lignasan BLP. The Institute will supply the chemical free, except for a shipping charge, to volunteer groups who will treat city trees and others belonging to non-profit institutions such as schools, churches and cemeteries.

Private home owners may purchase the chemical for approximately $10 a gallon, enough to do one tree. The injection equipment would cost the commission a little over $100 to buy and could be written off in the first year if enough people were interested at $5 apiece. The Borough and Township have a few elms left in areas such as the Princeton-Kingston Road, Elm Road and Westcott Road.

If these trees were injected volunteers from the community would be needed to do the injecting as it takes a number of hours to do each tree. This, however would be a community service as it not only would save the last remaining elms but would also save the community many hundreds of dollars in dead tree removal.

The Township Shade Tree Commission feels this is an excellent program with losses of injected elms in 1975 and 1976 reduced to less than one percent. However, due to the amount of time required to inject each tree, the commission would not feel justified in proceeding with this program without sufficient support from the community. Anyone interest in further information on treating their elms, or wishing to volunteer, may call Ross Wilcox at 921-6193.

Vote on DNA "Shocking."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is an open letter I have sent to the members of the Princeton Borough Council:

I was shocked and dismayed by your recent vote on the issue of recombinant DNA. Princeton has always seemed to me to be a particularly enlightened community, fortunate in having elected officials who represent the best aspects of American democracy at the local level. Your failure to accept the recommendations of the Princeton Community Biohazards Committee is an insult to the members of the Committee, your own appointees, and to the Princeton community as well.

Since last January, the 11 members of the Community Biohazards Committee have worked conscientiously, taking with utmost seriousness their charge from you and from the Township Committee to study the issues surrounding the recombinant DNA research, and to advise both local governments as to whether Princeton University should be permitted to proceed with P1, P2, and P3 level experiments under the guidelines proposed by the National Institutes of Health, as amended by the University's own Biohazards Committee.

Having followed the operation of the Princeton Community Biohazards Committee through its many months of diligent study and deliberation, I feel proud to live in a community capable of mounting such an impressive group of intelligent and public-spirited citizens to consider this important issue. The arduousness of their effort cannot be overstated. Not only did they give unstintingly of their time, surely at the cost of neglect of their personal affairs, but as laymen in a technical field they were successful in mastering the scientific knowledge necessary to permit a reasonable judgment of the impact that recombinant DNA research might have in Princeton.

I realize that the function of the Committee was advisory, and that the governing bodies were in no way obligated to accept their recommendations automatically. Yet how, without having made a comparable effort to understand the issues, could the Borough Council presume to reject the major thrust of the report presented by this unusually dedicated group of its own appointees? To my knowledge, no other municipality in which this issue has been voted upon has failed to accept the recommendations of its equivalent citizens' committee, all of which (e.g., Cambridge, Massachusetts and Ann Arbor, Michigan) have recommended (as the Princeton Community Biohazards Committee did) that recombinant DNA research of low and moderate risk (P1, P2 and P3 level) be permitted, with appropriate safeguards.

The Borough Council's vote to delay permission for P3 level research and to appoint another committee to study the question for another year has two serious consequences. First, it amounts to a vote of "no confidance" in the original Community Biohazards Committee, which deserves instead the gratitude and respect of all Princeton residents.

Even more serious is the chilling effect that this decision is bound to bave on the willingness of Princeton citizens to serve their governing bodies in an advisory capacity on this or other issues in the future. I urge you to reconsider your decision, and to restore the confidence of the community in the reasonable operation of our local governments.

Editor's Note: For a report on the probability of reconsideration by Borough Council, see page 1.

Try Another Color

To the Editor of Town Topics:

During the afternoon of Julian Garnsey, an artist who was a member of the University Art Department drew up a chart of colours which were compatible with each other and with a colonial street like Nassau Street. He offered this to the community and the local merchants adopted it, on a purely voluntary basis known as "Operation Nassau." Even Woolworth's was persuaded to give up their standard flashy scarlet and gold facade. Those who had begun to use neon lights gave them up. There was enough choice of colours to permit individuality within a harmonious whole. For years we have enjoyed the harmonious result.

If the original chart no longer exists in the files of the Chamber of Commerce or the Historical Society, I am sure some of our many architectural historians would be glad to draw up another. The newly-painted Hinkson Building would be all right in Atlantic City but Mr. Garnsey must be turning in his grave to see it on Nassau Street!

Grateful for Assistance

To the Editor of Town TOpics:

During the afternoon of Thursday, June 23, I was in a bicycle accident at the corner of Nassau Street and Palmer Square. I remember nothing of the accident, but I learned later that three (one of whom was Ms. Anne Sparrow) disentangled me from my bicycle, called the police who took me to the emergency room at the Medical Center, chained my bicycle to a bench in front of the church, and put the key to the chain in my pocket.

I would very much appreciate it if you would allow me the use of space in TOWN TOPICS to express my gratitude to these people for their generous assistance. Were it not for their help, my injuries could have been more serious than they were.

Firemen Deserve Credit.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am writing this letter in regard to the coverage that the annual Princeton Volunteer Firemen's parade did not receive! The 150 members of Princeton's three Volunteer Fire Companies are on duty at all times.

Have you forgotten so quickly the tragic fire last January on Witherspoon Street? Many firemen were on duty for three days at this time.

On Friday, June 24, the night of their annual parade and inspection, I was very disappointed to see the lack of townspeople, other than the firemen's families, who came out to support these volunteers. I was also very disappointed to see that your paper had no coverage whatsoever of this tribute to these fine, and courageous volunteers of our community.

I sincerely hope next year you will keep this in mind and give these dedicated men some well-deserved credit.

IT'S NEW To Us

TERRA COTTA OPENS

At Tomato Factory. Hopewell's Tomato Factory continues to grow, but unlike most stores there, the newest addition is not an antique shop. Instead, Terra Cotta specializes in handmade Mexican tiles, fine American crafts and folk art from around the world.

The tile has been used as a decorative motif throughout the store and is a perfect contrast to the white walls and display cubes. The decorated ones, which come in many colors and patterns, have been used for counter tops, sample boards and an elaborate blue and white bathtub, while several floor patterns have been combined to demonstrate the possibilities there.

Owners, Joanna Fiori and Irene Stein, did all the tile work themselves and have excellent directions for the do-it-yourselfer. Joanna said they had never tiled before–and the results are charming–but they also have a list of contractors for those who prefer help.

Most patterns are in stock, either here or at a distributor, and the cost per square foot is generally $2.70 to $3.20 for the floor tiles, $5.95 for the four-inch decorated ones and $4.95 for the plain tiles which many people like to combine with the decorated ones. Six-inch decorated tiles can be special ordered as can variations on the patterns, but of course the cost and delivery time is greater.

In addition to the flat tiles, there are matching trim pieces for the corners and edges of counter tops and coordinating sinks for the most elaborate bathroom ever. These are particularly lovely and come in a round or oval shape, priced from about $157 to $184.

And, for just a small taste of these attractive tiles, there are felt-backed squares to be used as trivets or cachepots in several sizes, $1.60 to $18.

MEXICAN TILE CREATIONS: An elegently tiled bathtub is but one of meny creations you can make with Terra Cotta's hand-painted Mexican tiles. Owners, Irene Stein (left) and Joanne Fiori, laid all the tiles, including the floors, themselves, and they have instructions for other do-it-yourselfers. (Clem Fiori photo)

Pottery, Also. While tile may be new to Joanna and Irene, pottery is not. They met eight years ago as pottery students in New York and later opened a craft shop there. Some of the potters from this previous venture are represented at Terra Cotta too, and their work shows the range of the craft--raku, stoneware and porcelain.

Nancee Meeker uses a low-fire raku process which produces a crackly effect in her glazes; Janet Rothman hand paints her high-fire stoneware serving pieces in gay multi-colored Mediterranean or patchwork designs; while Jurg Lanzrein makes stoneware place settings glazed with an abstract design, $6 to $50.

There are other potters too, but all have been chosen partially for their control over their craft. This makes it possible to re-order pieces or to buy a set of plates as everything fits together. They will not be identical because each piece is handmade, but they will have the same theme and feeling.

Terra Cotta has works by two glass blowers too. One, Jon Wolfard, makes lovely glass oil lamps in four sizes, priced from $19.50 to $38. These make lovely and unusual gifts, already boxed and packed with instructions of the process.

The other, Jim Engebutzen, makes mugs, bowls, vases and goblets (these have been used at a White House dinner,) and most pieces are available in clear glass or colors, $15 to $24.

Other crafts here are sculptured Soleri bronze and clay bells, Asian and African baskets in all sizes, and Indian boxes in papier mache, soapstone, brass or pottery. There are also kites from around the world, priced from $2.75 for a colorful butterfly one, and these are the only thing in the store with some machine processing.

Located At The Tomato Factory on Hamilton Avenue in Hopewell, Terra Cotta is open during the summer from 10 until 5 Tuesday through Saturday and Sunday from 11 until 5.

RECOMMENDED READING

For Summer Vacation. Just as New Year's brings about resolutions of improvement, summer arrives with promises of reading. Unhappily, often these good intentions do not materialize. So, this year Titles Unlimited has compiled a list of books guaranteed to hold your interest whether you're sunning at the beach or enjoying a quiet hour on your back porch.

If you're looking for a good story to start you off, there is John Cheever's fourth novel, "Falconer," about an ordinary upper-middle class man serving a prison term for the murder of his brother. It deals with the anger and nostalgia that propelled him into the crime and later with his undreamed of liberation from these events, $7.95.

Other fiction suggestions are -- "The Chancellor Manuscript" by Robert Ludlum. Here, the casual research of a best-selling novelist becomes a deadly serious interrogation into a pattern of evil, including the death of J. Edgar Hoover. Eventually, Chancellor uncovers a powerful secret government, only to find he has been their bait all along, entrapping others, $10.

"The Rich are Different" is by Susan Howatch, author of "Penmarric" and "Cashelmara." This time a young Englishwoman's love and ambition become intertwined with the fate of an American banking family during the 1920's and 1930's, $11.50.

And, "Full Disclosure" by New York Times' columnist, William Safire, is a political novel about the 41st President who is blinded in an assassination attempt while meeting in Russia with Soviet leaders. Unable to carry out his full duties, the cabinet must decide whether or not to ask him to resign under the untried new 25th amendment.

For Non-Fiction Fans. Then for those who prefer non-fiction, there is "Mortal Lessons: Notes on the Art of Surgery" by Richard Selzer, a surgeon at the Yale Medical Center. He takes the reader right into the operating room, exposing not only the human body but also man's mind and soul, $8.95.

"The Managerial Woman" by Margaret Henning and Anne Jardin examines the conditioning process that causes men and women to enter business with the same goals but not the same assumptions and approaches as to achieving these goals. They also discuss ways of identifying and removing these unconscious barriers, $7.95.

In "Freedom From Meditation" Patricia Carrington shows how to adapt currently popular meditative techniques to suit personal needs, how to handle common problems, and how to use meditation when under stress or to enhance a specific ability, $8.95.

Hugh Trevor Roper unravels the fantasy and truth in Sir Edmund Backhouse's memoirs to reveal that this bookish old gentleman was really one of the most outrageous forgers, confidence tricksters and eccentrics of the 20th century. Called the "Hermit of Peking," this is an adventure in historical and scholarly sleuthing, $10.

Titles Unlimited, located at the Montgomery Shopping Center and Princeton Shopping Center, also has a large stock of paperback books, many of which had been hardback best-sellers.

There is Gail Sheehy's "Passages," a book about the predictable crises of adult life; Leon Jaworski's fascinating memoir, "The Right and The Power: The Prosecution of Watergate"; and "The West End Horror," a posthumus memoir of John H. Watson, M.D.; edited by Nicholas Meyer. $1.75 to $2.50.

Other choices include a Victoria Holt novel, "The Pride of The Peacock"; Jack Higgins' account of reckless courage during a daring World War II mission, called "Storm Warning"; and Judith Guest's excellent first novel, "Ordinary People," the story of a family piecing itself together once again after the death of a son, $1.95 to $2.25.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 20 cents.

MERRILL ZINDER NAMED MAN OF THE YEAR: Merrill Zinder (left) of Hopewell Township, president of Good Time Cherley's Restaurant in Kingston and Cherley's Brother in Hopewell, has been named Man of the Year by the Kiwanis Club of Trenton and the National Multiple Sclerosis Society for his involvement in charitable and community affairs. Before forming a chain of restaurants which also include ones in New Brunswick and Mount Holly, Mr. Zinder was a long-time Princeton merchant. He is shown with New Hope artist Nelson Shanks who presented Mr. Zinder with a portrait of himself at a benefit Kiwanis-Multiple Sclerosis Awards Dinner Dance attended by more than 700 guests. Since the inception of the program, Mr. Zinder had donated more than 50,000 dinners to the Kiwanis Club, the proceeds of which are given to the MS Society.

ONCE MORE — FROM THE AIR: The benson Building on the corner of Witherspoon and Spring streets has been the community's most photographed structure since its destruction by fire January 21 and subsequent razing. Now, as this picture by Marz Aerial Photo reveals, it is the Borough's biggest hole in the ground. Plans to build a commercial and office building on the site have been announced by owner Lawrence E. Benson and princeton realtor John T. Henderson, Jr.

KING'S GRANT REAL ESTATE

10 NASSAU STREET
PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY 08540

Phone: (609) 921-1411

King's Grant is the Exclusive Local Representative for Homerica, The Nation's Leading Home-Finding Service

King's Grant is particularly pleased to present one of Princeton's most distinguished properties; - a superb Georgian house on 43 acres of lawns, gardens and meadows in Princeton's handsomest area northwest of town.

Entering this great and gracious house, guests are greeted in the handsomely panelled entrance hall with black and white marble floor. The exquisite architectural detail is but an introduction to that found throughout the house, much of it imported from England. To the left is the morning room with a delicate marble mantel, deep wood cornice, pedimented door and a bow window looking out to the garden. The wide, graceful staircase with polished mahogany handrail ascends to the six family bedrooms and sitting room above.

The living room is a spacious 28' x 22' with magnificent fireplace and over-mantel, and doors opening to a terrace and to the greenhouse. The panelled dining room, also unusually large, with 18th century English mantel and finely carved pedimented doors can accommodate at least twenty at dinner. The far end of the dining room, with a sweeping vista of fields and hills through the lunetted French windows, provides space for a breakfast table in the bay.

The knotty pine panelled library with lighted cove ceiling, is a handsome book-lined retreat and in conjunction with the living room, adds further to the spaciousness of the house for entertaining.

The long covered terrace opens to the south lawn from the morning room and the living room. The magnificent ironwork is handsomely detailed in an intertwined oak leaf motif. Further along the south facade of the house is the fine large greenhouse with its own open terrace more informal in character and adjoining the cutting garden. Just outside the dining room is another terrace with a green garden, perhaps for afternoon tea, offering complete privacy yet with views across serene woods and greens where songbirds, pheasant and deer are found quietly grazing. In the English tradition of the private park there are brick and hedge enclosed gardens, a field planted in American holly, specimen shade trees, a stand of mature evergreens and a small meandering brook. In every season of the year these acres are a delight to the nature lover. Country living at its finest, yet exactly one mile from Nassau Street and the campus of Princeton University.

High Cost of Housing in Princeton

The following is adapted from a speech on local housing issues delivered to Princeton University's Administrative Staff Council by John P. Moran. Moran, a 1951 Princeton graduate and a member of the University staff since 1959, is vice president for facilities.

The cost of housing is a national issue. According to Department of Commerce figures contained in a recent issue of "Time" magazine, the average price of a new house in the United States this year is $53,000. The mean family income in the U.S. is about $14,000. Assuming that a family can afford to pay twice its income for a house, the average American family can afford to pay $28,000. It is obvious that most Americans can't afford a new house (although most Americans now live in their own homes).

The rental picture is also of concern. It assumed that one can pay 25 percent of one's income for shelter. A family earning $14,000 therefore can afford about $300 per month for rent. Most people think – including our faculty and staff – that $300 per month is an exorbitant rent. The cost of building, owning, and operating rental housing, due to the rise in material and labor costs and more stringent building codes and operating regulations, raises questions as to whether it is profitable to build apartments. Certainly large apartments are beyond the reach of most people.

I read recently in the "New York Times" that Richard S. Ramsden, executive director of the Consortium on Financing Higher Education, said, referring to the cost of college education, "In any other major purchase people are given ways to stretch out their payments. If we had to buy a home in four years, most of us would be living in trailers."

Most of us will be living in trailers. It is the only form of new housing that is generally within reach of the average - or below-average-income American family. A drive through most parts of America makes this obvious.

In summary, the national housing picture is that: (1) the average cost of a new house is $53,000; (2) the average family can afford to pay $28,000 for a new house; (3) the average family can afford to pay $300 per month for rent, but it is unclear whether such housing will be built; (4) most new housing starts are trailers; (5) everybody thinks housing is overpriced; (6) it will get worse because housing costs are rising faster than family incomes.

With this grim national housing picture, it is no surprise that housing is a big issue in the Princeton community. Princeton's costs for housing are far above the national average. A quick look at the history of the Princeton community may give us some insights.

Once a College Town. For many years Princeton was mainly a college town, and there was no great difficulty for people who worked in the community, for the college or elsewhere, to find a home here. After World War II, the expectation that all those who worked here could live here, began to seem less realistic. Princeton became a popular place from which to commute to New York.

Now, thousands of people commute from the Princeton area to New York each day. In addition, some 28 major corporations located their headquarters or their research facilities in the Princeton area. Princeton became the place to live in the area for people who could afford to pay whatever it cost. The demand caused housing costs to rise dramatically.

The University responded to these problems. It began to house all of its undergraduate students. For many years, the University had not housed all of its freshmen; they were on the bottom of the totem pole and the last to get housing. Since World W AR II, the University has built or acquired some 500 dormitory spaces for undergraduates – not counting some 750 spaces acquired or built in response to coeducation.

In addition, the University has built 500 spaces for graduate students, and some 300 apartments and houses for faculty and staff. Princeton has built nearly 2,000 faculty, staff, and student housing units in recent years.

But the University has gone well beyond housing its own people. In 1970, President Goheen said that Princeton would make some of its land available to qualified developers to build up to 1,500 low- and moderate-income housing units. He did not say that the University would build the units. The University's business is education, not housing.

The Goheen statement sometimes has been misunderstood and misinterpreted. President Goheen spoke at a time when the popular belief was that the lack of sites for housing was the principal reason that housing for low- and middle-income people was not being built. We now know that the reasons were much more complicated.

Federal Program a Problem. The federal subsidy programs were not working, housing costs were rising, and there was a general failure of management of subsidized housing. There was no incentive under the so-called 236 program for a manager of housing to "stick it out" over the long term. The profits were all in the first few years. In St. Louis, for example, thousands of relatively new housing units were bulldozed to the ground because they were unmanageable and thus were in default. The Nixon administration halted the 236 program.

The University had to abandon a plan for a developer to build 250 units of low- and moderate-income housing near Lawrence Court because the 236 program was withdrawn, and because a sewer moratorium was imposed. But the University did not give up its commitment to help with housing. Let me tell you what we have done and are doing today.

First, we are a member of Princeton Community Housing, which operates 250 units of subsidized housing. To keep that project moving, we underwrote the architectural fees.

Second, as part of the Princeton Forrestal Center, 600 units of housing will be built. They will be of a wide variety of types and sizes, from one-bedroom units to four-bedroom units, and will include apartments, town houses, and patio houses. Of these 600 units, 120 units will be subsidized.

The University offered a below-market mortgage in the amount of $3,330,000 at an interest rate of 7½ percent for 40 years and the developers, Harold Sarshik and Ernest Edwards of Cherry Hill, undertook to forgo development and operating profits on the 120 units of housing to produce the subsidy. These steps will allow rents below those that could have been achieved under the preliminary HUD approval, which the developers earlier obtained, and will maintain good quality and a generous size of apartments.

It is important to the success of the remaining housing units and the overall Forrestal Center development that the subsidized units be of equal quality to the rest of the development. Ordinarily the University would not use its funds for such purposes, but the circumstances at Forrestal made for the exception.

Available to Public. The 120 units will be available to the public; initial rents will be approximately $245 for one-bedroom units, $299 for two-bedroom units, $365 for three-bedroom units, and $424 for four-bedroom units. These rents are 4 to 11 percent below the rents that would be in effect if a government mortgage subsidy were used.

Third, Dick Green and Carol Dinsmore of our Real Estate Office have developed a program to convert certain properties the University owns along Nassau Street to 25 apartments available to the public. These will be at market rents.

Fourth, four of the six houses to be affected by the new biochemistry building will be moved to a location just to the rear of the properties along Nassau Street between Aaron Burr Hall and the former Nassau Street School.

Fifth, Palmer Square Inc., which the University controls, has agreed to sell land to Princeton Community Housing for 100 units of housing for the elderly, if alternative parking can be provided. The Mayor has a committee working on the parking problem; it is to report by September 1.

If all of this jells, as I am confident it will, Princeton will have helped directly or indirectly to provide nearly 1,000 units of housing for the public.

But this report must end on a rather pessimistic note. As I mentioned earlier, it is now clear that the lack of sites for housing is not the key problem, as it was thought at the time the Goheen statement was made.

The problems are that (1) the national cost of new housing has risen dramatically – much faster than family income; (2) the costs associated with housing, such as fuel and real estate taxes, have also risen – for example, the Forrestal housing, if duplicated in Princeton, would require higher rents because of real estate taxes.

(3) the demand for housing in the Princeton community is pushing prices upward - the cost of housing in Princeton has risen by about 12 percent per year in the last two years; (4) housing in Princeton is largely limited to single-family homes, which are an expensive form of housing.

For all of these reasons it seems to be extremely difficult to control housing costs in Princeton. The national housing crisis is compounded in Princeton by high demand and high taxes.

Shaw's 'Candida' Provides Auspicious Opening For Summer Intime as Its 10th Season Begins

Summer Intime's tenth season has opened auspiciously with a polished, handsome and lively presentation of Bernard Shaw's comedy "Candida." A nearly impeccable production delighted a packed opening-night audience with a display of Shavian wit and acute characterizations.

Shaw takes pot shots at quite a number of the myths men live by. Male intelligence takes a beating. Materialism and godliness fight to a draw, each knocking holes in the other's pretensions. Men's ideas of love are sharply scrutinized, and poor Candida Morell has to choose between the claims of the two humorless men who say they love her.

News Of The THEATRES

IN TITLE ROLE: Ketherine Stewart appears as "Candide" in first production of Summer Intime's new seeson. (John Simpson Photo)

A great part of the pleasure to be had these evenings in Murray Theatre must be creditied to Katherine Mendeloff, whose fine direction of "Candida" is everywhere apparent. She maintains a nice balance between scenes of brisk comedy and quiet, intimate moments which are so well done that a hushed audience is raptly attentive.

She achieves excellent interplay among the characters. The actors' movements are never slack and sometimes inspired, as in the significant triangle of figures just before the crucial "showdown" involving Marchbanks, Morell and Candida.

Miss Mendeloff is ably seconded by the splendidly solid 1894 living room designed by Kevin Wilkes and the period costumes of Helen Hartley Platt. Richard Warwinski's lighting is also helpful, especially in the firelight scene of Act Three.

An Able Cast. Of the able cast I mention first Mark Nelson because his role of the young poet Marchbanks seems to me to present the greatest challenge. With a lesser actor many of the youth's sentiments would be mawkish in the extreme. Mr. Nelson's Marchbanks, however, I not only believed but felt sympathy with. His impracticality seems, for the moment at least, more appealing than the Reverend James Morell's good deeds.

As the parson, Keith Moore is good in a part that is difficult for other reasons. He has to be preachy and yet attractive. This Mr. Moore is, and he handles Morell's descent from self-assurance through suspicion and suffering to humility very well.

Katherine Stewart gives us a calmly beautiful Candida. Dignified yet playful, compassionate yet capable of anger, wise enough to know when to be amused, she has the magnetism to be the true center of the play. Having seen Miss Stewart play parts either bitchy or grotesque, I rejoice that in this play she is genuinely queen.

A trio of good actors supports the three leads. Nancy Bleemer's Miss Prossy is a delight. With variety of voice, face and gesture and with exquisite timing, Miss Bleemer plays comedy to perfection. It is hard not to be watching her when the interest is supposed to shift to other characters.

Paul Lawrence as Mr. Burgess, Candida's earthly-minded father, plays the part broadly. The opposition he engenders with Morell, Marchbanks and even Miss Prossy sparks many of the comedy scenes. Geoff Rich brings a breezy vigor to the part of Lexy Mill, the assistant curate.

In sum, Summer Intime's "Candida" wins enthusiastic backing from this quarter. Not only is it fun to watch, but on the morning after it leaves pictures to remember and ideas to mull over.

CABARET TAKES BREAK

After Friday's Shows. The Inn Cabaret, the weekly musical and comedy revue which performs Friday evenings at 8:30 and 10:30 in the Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn, is in rehearsal for its Friday show, which will be the last of early summer. The Cabaret will take three weeks off, and return with three more shows on August 5, 12 and 19.

This week's show will include Suzie Bertin, Liz Fillo, Ray Gross and Brian Watkinson, with newcomers Derry Light and Denise Seutter making their first Inn Cabaret appearances. One of the Cabaret's most prolific writers, Joe Bolster, will also make his first stage appearance at the Cabaret, performing some of his own material. Milton Lyon will be handling the music while Dan Berkowitz will direct and again act as master of ceremonies. Reservations may be made by calling 924-3727.

TWO IN FRENCH

For Summer Cinema. Films by two master directors of the contemporary French cinema, Claude Chabrol and Louis Malle, will comprise the third week double-bill program of "Summer Cinema '77," at Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton University campus. The program will run from Thursday, through Sunday.

Claude Chabrol's "Le Boucher" (The Butcher) is both a murder mystery and a love story about a lonely schoolteacher (Stephane Audran) and a gentle butcher who may – or may not – spend his off hours carving up young girls in the nearby woods. The courtship of the couple is integrated with the life of the provincial French town of Tremblat, where the film was made. One critic called the film "a superlative study in psychological and romantic realism, with overtones of Hitchcock for good measure."

Completing the double-feature will be Louis Malle's "Lacombe, Lucien," a 1974 film by the director of the popular "Murmur of the Heart" (which Summer Cinema will show in early August). Lucien is a 17-year old French farm boy who, by chance, joins the Gestapo in a small provincial French town just prior to the collapse of the German Occupation in 1944.

Armed with a police card, money and a gun, Lucien plays with power and enjoys the prestige of the conquerors for a few short months, during which he also enters into a friendship with a family of Jewish refugees hiding nearby. Director Malle's film presents war not in terms of grand gestures and heroism, but as waste, petty opportunism and misunderstanding.

Both films will be presented in French dialogue, with English subtitles. The double-features screening begin at 7:30 on Thursday and Sunday evenings, and at 8 on Friday and Saturday, with "Le Boucher" shown first.

"HARVEY" CAST

By Street Theatre. Rehearsals are underway for the July 13 opening of the Street Theatre's production of "Harvey," the amiable tale of Elwood P. Dowd and his best friend -- a six-foot invisible white rabbit.

John Fenton will play Elmer Dowd. Myra Chanley has been cast as Dowd's sister, who is convinced that Elmer and his rabbit should be put away on the funny farm. Myrtle May, Elwood's niece who just wants to get herself a man but finds Elmer and Harvey keep getting in her way, will be played by Sunni Farrington.

Meanwhile at Chumbley's rest home, Dr. Sanderson and Nurse Kelley will be played by Curt Rosloff and Karen Schleyer, with John Wible cast as Chumbley himself. Peter Colotta will play Wilson, the arrogant but solicitous attendant at the institution, Diane Such will play Judge Shirley Garrney, Selma Thompson will be seen as Mrs. Betty Chumbley and Curtis Davidson as the cab driver.

Billed as an evening of family entertainment, the production will open Wednesday, July 13, at 8 at Littlebrook School. Additional performances will be held July 15, 16, 17, 22 and 23. All Street Theatre performances are free but contributions are needed, and the audience is advised to bring a little something to feed the rabbit.

For information about the production or any Street Theatre function, call 924-7452.

TRYOUTS SCHEDULED

For 'Man of La Mancha.' Artistic directors Jeffrey R. Holcombe and Francis A. Towne have announced tryouts for the fourth and final show of the fifth season of Theatre-By-The-Lake. Tryouts for "Man of La Mancha" will be held Monday and Tuesday at 7 in Geiger-Reeves Hall on the Peddie School campus, South Main and Ward streets in Hightstown.

"Man of LaMancha," which opened on Broadway in 1965 starring Richard Kiley, tells of the travels of the character, Don Quixote, through the eyes of the author, Miquet de Cervantes. It takes place in a Spanish prison at the end of the 16th century and in various places in the imagination of Cervantes.

The role of Quixote-Cervantes requires an actor-singer of extraordinary ability. Several other roles, such as the innkeeper, Aldonza, Sancho, the Padre, the inkeeper's wife and Dr. Carrasco, also require good singing and acting abilities. There are several other small roles, such as the Muleteers and soldiers. Those trying out may bring a resume, photograph and an audition song of their choice.

Rehearsals will be in the evening from 7 to 11 for a period of five weeks, with performances scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 18, 19, and 20. Musical director will be Thomas M. Cardea from Hightstown High School. Choreographing this show will be Theatre-By-The-Lake veteran, Valerie Stutts.

Theatre-By-The-Lake also seeks people interested in working back stage on sets, lights, publicity or box office. For further information, call the theater at 443-4544 between 7 and 11 p.m.

BLUEGRASS IS FIRST

In Summer Sounds Series. It's blue grass on the grass at the Princeton Shopping Center Mall this Friday evening at 7:30 as the free, outdoor community concert series Summer Sounds starts off with a "pickin' jamboree" by The Southern Mountain Boys.

Among the traditional blue grass groups based in the Tri-state area of Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland, The Southern Mountain Boys, led by Ted Lundy and Bob Paisley, feature hard-driving, full-blasted, gut-bucket grass, mixed with close harmony duet and trio singing of the "high lonesome" variety.

The band has performed for folk and blue grass festivals throughout the country. Last January it was chosen to play for Jimmy Carter's inauguration in Washington, and this June for a reception honoring Princess Anne of England. Basically a family affair of sons and cousins, The Southern Mountain Boys including Ted Lundy, banjo; Bob Paisley, guitar; Jerry Lundy, fiddle; T.J. Lundy, mandolin; Dan Paisley, guitar; and Bill Graybeal, bass.

This concert is sponsored by the Princeton Shopping Center. The series of free musical evenings is supported by the Princetoyn Youth Fund in cooperation with the Recreation Department, the Arts Council and Princeton University. Listeners should bring blankets and camp chairs.

WINNERS LISTED

In Piano Competitions. Five Princeton residents were among the 14 finalists chosen in the Mary Simon Gindhart piano scholarship competitions for high school students and the Acuff piano scholarship competitions for 7th and 8th grade students. The competitions are sponsored by the Greater Trenton Symphony Foundation and Scholarship Fund, and the awards are to be used to further the winners' musical education.

Jessica Liu, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.G. Liu of 48 Braeburn Place, and Leti Volpp, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ching Volpp of 116 Poe Road, tied for second place in the Acuff awards. Each received $75.

The Gindhart Piano scholarships are divided into two groupings, 9th and 10th, and 11th and 12th, to narrow the base of judging and to be fair to all applicants. This year there was a tie for first place in the first group. Cynthia Khachadurian, 14, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Avedis Khachadurian was awarded a $200 scholarship, as was Mark Yim, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Michael Yim of Franklin Avenue.

Kharis Powell, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Powell of 15 Maple Street, took second place and received a $100 scholarship.

ART In Princeton

EXHIBIT TO OPEN

At Medical Center. The Medical Center will exhibit original watercolors of Betty Whelan during July and August.

Mrs. Whelan began her study of art as a young girl with her mother, Marian Van Hart, an accomplished oil painter. She became interested in watercolors a number of years ago and has studied with several artists throughout the state. She is currently working with Lucile Geiser of Sea Girt at the Princeton Art Association studios.

A member of the Garden State Watercolor Society, Mrs. Whelan has exhibited in numerous juried shows throughout New Jersey. In addition, she has exhibited in one-man shows in the Princeton area, most recently at the Loft Gallery.

The public is invited to attend the opening and reception on Sunday from 1-3, in the lobby of the Medical Center. Refreshments will be served.

Works by Inmates of State Prison Currently on View at Gallery 100

A first in the annals of art in Princeton will take place Sunday from 2 to 5 when a display of art by inmates of Trenton State Prison will be open in Gallery 100 on Nassau Street. Some 80 works in oils, water colors and pencil sketches will be on exhibit and available for sale through Friday, July 16.

The exhibit is co-sponsored by the Arts Council and Gallery 100. It has been arranged largely by Karin Laughlin and Nina Alexander acting on a suggestion from Grace Plater, the librarian at Trenton State who formerly worked in the Princeton High School library.

According to Anne Reeves of the Arts Council, guards and other personnel at the prison are prohibited from purchasing any work produced by inmates in their art workshop classes. This exhibit and sale provides not only some monetary rewards but also the first outside evaluation and encouragement for their efforts that is essential to self-esteem. Mrs. Reeves adds that most of the prisoners were totally untrained in any aspect of art until they signed up for the art workshop class conducted by Karen Wilbert in the prison. "They are pretty much self-trained," she says, "and the results are quite amazing."

The inmates, who were tremendously excited by the prospect of their work having outside showing and then equally let-down when they were told the show couldn't take place until July, have designed their own invitation to the opening reception. Drawn by a man known just as "Ben," it depicts a cell with one bar broken. In the space once occupied by that bar are the details of time and place of the reception.

Invitations have been sent to all the families of the participating prisoners, and the public is welcome. Unsold works of art may not be returned to the prison for security reasons, and Mrs. Reeves hopes that a prisoner rehabilitation group such as Forum Project may be able to use the remaining works to decorate its offices.

Clubs and Organizations

The New Jersey Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will hold a seminar and workshop on Saturday at Middlesex County College on the theme "Do You Know How to Make Your Club Year Successful."

Representing the Princeton Business and Professional Women's Club will be Helen Povilaitis, President, a data processing technician with the Princeton Regional Board of Education, and Mary Ellen Coleman, recording secretary, Assistant to the Masters at Princeton Inn College, Princeton University.

"Advantages of Breastfeeding" will be discussed at the La Leche League meeting Monday at 8. It is the first of four topics on breastfeeding and parenting.

Other discussions will include "Breastfeeding: Getting It All Together," "Getting Started as a Nursing Family" and "Nutrition for Baby, Mother, and Family; Weaning."

All interested persons are welcome. This series of meetings will be held at 97 Randall Road. For more information call Peggy Killmer, 921-8254.

Parents Anonymous is a crisis intervention program to help parents prevent damaging relationships between themselves and their children. A self-help group with a chapter that meets every Wednesday in Mercer County, P.A. is run by parents with assistance from a professional sponsor and exists to give help to parents who feel guilty or confused about the way they treat their children or who are angry and depressed.

Membership is free, and weekly meetings provide individuals an opportunity to share similar experiences in a non-punitive, non-judgemental atmosphere. Telephone numbers are also exchanged to offer a resource to members in crisis situations. Confidentiality is important and many members use only their first names.

For more information about the Mercer County meetings, call Contact at 888-2111.

Mr. Dennison served a year and a half on the ship, from shortly before Pearl Harbor to the winter of 1943. He signed on as an assistant engineer and was promoted to chief engineer.

One of the principal engagements in which the Babbitt was involved occurred in February of 1943 and was written up in the U.S. Naval Proceedings of December, 1966, by a participant on another ship who later had access to the logs of both German and Allied vessels. Admiral Karl Doenitz, Commander in Chief of the German Navy, had staked a great deal on convoy SC 118 which the Babbitt was escorting, he writes.

Second
Or, if you'd like more time to repay, your Princeton Bank Regular Checking Account will get you up to 48 months with our Annual Percentage Rate of 10.25% when you make a minimum down payment of 25% on your new car.

convoy disintegrated into a milling, fleeing mob of ships," the Babbitt heavily damaged one submarine but, having to rejoin the convoy, did not know it until much later.

At one point, the crack German Uboat skipper Forstner, whose submarine had sunk seven Allied ships, came upon the Babbitt with all lights blazing, picking up survivors as she had been ordered to. Forstner had but one torpedo left, but he decided to go after a merchant vessel up abead instead of the Babbitt, which helped insure this reunion among 14 former shipmates.

One of the reuners was L. Daniel Dannenbaum of Philadelphia, a deck officer. Mr. Dannenbaum, a former Yale swimming captain, survived the torpedo sinking of the troopship that was carrying to his assignment on the Babbitt and saved the lives of some 70 others besides his own by lifting up a badly wedged hatch cover. He arrived at the Babbitt with only his toothbrush.

Four area residents have been named to the Dean's List at Bowdoin College. They are Pamela B. Gray '80 of 20 Linwood Circle, Peter J. Moore '77 of 81 Hun Road, Thomas M. Woodward III '80 of 211 Hun Road, and Polyxeni Rounds '79 of 36 Quaker Road.

THAT'S A LOT OF STAMPS: It takes two, Bernt Midland (left) and Larry Tedross, to carry the 23 pounds of used stamps donated by Mrs. Carole Lesniewski to the West Windsor Lions Club. Mr. Midland is chairman of the stamp collecting committee which gives the stamps to institutions for recreational and educational use, and Mr. Tedross is president of the Lions.

Clubs & Organizations

Mrs. Carole Lesniewski of 5 Dunbar Road, in West Windsor Township, has donated 23 pounds of used stamps to the West Windsor Lions Club. This is one of the largest single donations of stamps that the lions Club has received in the two years that it has been collecting stamps. The stamps are donated to various institutions through New Jersey where they are used by the less fortunate to pass away lonely hours and also for their educational value.

Among the locations to which stamps may be brought are Lucar Hardware and Will's Shell in Princeton Junction, Hamilton Supply Co. on Klockner Road in Hamilton, the West Windsor public library in Dutch Neck Center, the post office in Plainsboro using zip code 08536, Leisure World in Jamesburg and Meadow Lakes Retirement Village in Hightstown. Other locations that would like to collect stamps should call Bernt Midland at 799-1642.

The Keen-agers Club of West Windsor, the township's senior citizen club, has completed another community project by planting a large quantity of flowers in the triangle in Dutch Neck Center. Mrs. Betty Simon was chairman of the flower planting committee assisted by Lester Applegate, incoming president of the Keen-agers, and Henry Jantz.

Some of the flowers that were planted include a number of different colored coleus, geraniums, pansies and begonias. The Keen-agers will weed and water the plants this summer so that the many hundreds of people that drive by the area can appreciate their beauty. The plants were purchased by the West Windsor Lions Club and delivered by Will's Shell truck.

WHITHER I-95?

New Meetings Scheduled.

The second in a series of public meetings will be held this month to discuss the environmental and location studies being conducted for Interstate Routes 95 and 695 from Interstate Route 295 in Mercer County to Interstate Route 287 in Somerset and Middlesex Counties.

As explained at the first series of meetings last September, the current studies will lead to the development of a Draft Environmental Impact Statement that will be the basis upon which a decision will be made as to whether and where Routes 95 and 695 will be built.

For the past several months, the Department and its consultant, Candeub, Fleissig and Associates of Newark, have been examing previously considered alternatives for these routes as well as those developed as a result of the present studies. This preliminary alternative selection process has sought to reduce the multitude of alternatives to a workable few that will undergo more detailed environmental analysis.

The public meetings, to provide a forum for discussion of the alternatives selected for further study as well as the procedures used in selecting them, are scheduled as follows, with each to begin at 7:30 p.m.:

TIGERS TOP IVIES

In Won-Lost Averages. In addition to their ability to win seven of the 17 Ivy league championships during the past academic year (TOWN TOPICS, June 22), Princeton athletic teams compiled the best winning percentage of the eight member colleges.

In achieving this feat for the third year in a row, the Tigers outdistanced runner-up Harvard by a wide margin. Their winning percentage, was .635, based on 56 victories against 32 defeats and a tie, while the Crimson won at a .556 clip.

Princeton, Harvard and third-place Cornell were the only colleges to win more than half of the contests within Ivy League competition. The Ithacans topped the .500 mark by 29 percentage points.

Brown was barely below the break-even point at .494. Following were Pennsylvania, .489; Columbia, 484; Dartmouth, 401; and Yale, .394. The Elis continue to rank as an astonishing paradox in overall ability: where as they are always at or near the top in Ivy football, and current seniors at New Haven were only 10 or 11 years old when the Blue last lost to Princeton in the sport, Yale is virtually powerless to win much of anything else.

Princeton is not, by any means, merely fattening its averages in Ivy competition while getting knocked off consistently by other opponents. In won-lost percentages against all comers, the Tigers are the best in the Ivy, too.

They won 155 times, lost 90 and tied once, for an average of .632 against all competition. Harvard again was second, this time a bit closer at .611. Penn and Cornell were also better than .500 on overall basis, but Yale, Dartmouth, Columbia and Brown fell short of winning half their contests.

All the foregoing statistics are based on men's competition. Among women athletes, Yale was first in overall standings, Princeton placed second and Harvard-Radcliffe was third.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Here's an amazing fact ... Do you realize when auto race drivers go as fast as 200 miles-per-hour, as some did in qualifying this year for the Indianapolis-500 mile race, that is equivalent to driving THE LENGTH OF A FOOTBALL FIELD IN JUST OVER ONE SECOND! ... A car traveling 200 miles-per-hour is going 275 feet a second, and a football field is 100 yards, or 300 feet long, so a car at that speed would go from goal line to goal line in just over one second!

What are the most games any big league baseball team ever lost in a row? ... The record in this century was set by the Phillies when they lost 23 straight in 1961 – and during that losing streak, they played almost an entire month without winning! ... They failed to win a game that year from July 28 to August 21!

Has any rookie ever been able to win the batting championship in big league baseball? ... It's happened only ONCE in history ... The only rookie to lead a major league in batting at the end of any season was Tony Oliva, who won the American League batting title in 1964.

I bet you didn't know ... that our $10,000 Deductible Major Medical with a $250,000 limit could cost a man age 44, wife age 42 and two children as little as $155 per year.

TRACK STAR HONORED

With NCAA Scholarship. Craig Masback, a 1977 Princeton University graduate and an All-Ivy and All-American track performer, has been awarded an NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship in recognition of his outstanding athletic and academic achievements.

During Masback's four years at Princeton, he established himself as one of the all-time great Tiger runners. In addition to his ten All-Ivy awards in both track and cross country, he became the first athlete in the history of the Heptagonal Games to win the indoor mile for three successive years. He was a member of Princeton's 1975 NCAA Indoor Champion two-mile relay team and of the Tigers' 1976 medley relay team that finished second in the NCAA Indoor Championships.

Masback set new Princeton records this year in the indoor and outdoor mile runs. The former (4:01.8) he set in capturing the IC4A Indoor title at Jadwin Gym in March. He easily broke the University's nine-year old outdoor mile mark of 4:08 with a 4:04.2 clocking a fortnight ago in the international meet with Army against a team from Oxford and Cambridge at West Point.

SLIDE CONTINUES

For Princeton Legion Nine. This isn't going to be a summer that the Princeton Post 76 baseball team will recall with fond memories.

Coach Bob Bruschi's squad lost two more last week to sink further in the Northern Division standingsof the American Legion League, losing 3-2 to Lawrence Post 414 Thursday -- although it outhit the victors 6-3 and being one-hit by Ewing's Mark Forst the day before. The record is presently 4-9.

Against Lawrence with the score tied at 2, Princeton gave it away in the fifth when it was guilty of four errors. Hard-luck hurler Steve Hurlburt, who had two of Princeton's six hts, took the loss. Al Kandell singled home one Princeton run and Frank Pasquito's homer in the second accounted for Lawrence's two other runs.

Forst struck out eight in fashioning his one-hitter against Princeton. The only batter to solve him was third baseman Tom Ferguson, who singled.

Singles by Jack Elder and Scott Shropshire had staked Post 314 to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Dana Nini took the loss, his first after three wins.

SCHEDULE DUPLICATED

In Football for PHS. The Princeton High School football team will play the same teams in the same order in 1977 as it did last year.

The schedule: Sept. 24, Lakewood, away; Oct. 1, Ewing, away; 8, Hun, away; 15, Hightstown; 22, West Windsor, away; 29, St. Anthony's; Nov. 5, Lawrence; 12, Notre Dame, away; and 19, Trenton, away. The three home games are the fewest in memory.

Last year, the Little Tigers lost their first two to Lakewood and Ewing and then won all the rest with the exception of a lone Colonial Valley Conference loss to St. Anthony's. Their 4-1 conference record enabled them to share the first CVC championship with Notre Dame.

MATHEMATICA UPSET

By GFDL. Mathematica scored 5 runs in the bottom half of the fifth inning to break a 6-6 deadlock and went on to upset second place GFDL 13-6.

Paul Ressler's home run and a two run triple by Jay Brown were the key hits in the five run outburst. Jay Brown (3-4) and Dave Richardson (3-4) with a three-run home run in the first inning. provided the bat support. Winning pitcher Paul Ressler evened his record at 4 and 4.

American Can pulled into a second place tie with GFDL in the National Division with a 7-4 win over ERC. Bill Gulvin was the winning pitcher in extending American Can's winning streak to six games.

Norelco and PAR split a doubleheader. PAR put a halt to Norelco's undefeated skein of seven games with an 11-2 victory in the first game of a twin bill. Joe Fadanza, Bob Pullen and Dave Rousseau led the hitting attack. Ken Secrist was the winning pitcher. Norelco won the second game.
